

It to see. Line to take. May 2 1997

We were elected as New Labour and will govern as New Labour.

That means that we will implement our Manifesto - no more, no less.

The size of our majority makes no difference to this. We made a set of promises to the British electorate. They gave us a mandate to carry out these specific policies and that is exactly what we will do.

We will begin honouring our pledges immediately and they will form the basis of our first Queen's speech and first budget.

Will do.

Tony.
